

Job Description: Biology Professor

About Erskine College

At the heart of Erskine College is its Christian identity. The college's mission is to equip students to flourish by providing an excellent liberal arts education in a Christ-centered environment where learning and biblical truth are integrated to develop the whole person.

Description

The Biology Professor at Erskine College will be responsible for designing and delivering high-quality instruction in the field of biology while integrating Christian values into the curriculum. The role involves teaching a range of undergraduate courses, developing innovative course materials, mentoring students, and engaging in scholarly research. The successful candidate will demonstrate a passion for science education and a commitment to the college's mission of holistic development.

Responsibilities

- Design and teach undergraduate biology courses, ensuring curriculum alignment with academic standards.
- Develop and update course materials, including syllabi, lecture notes, and laboratory exercises.
- Mentor and advise students on academic and career-related matters, incorporating spiritual guidance where appropriate.
- Conduct scholarly research and publish findings in reputable academic journals.
- Engage in departmental and college-wide service, including curriculum development and committee participation.
- Integrate biblical principles with scientific inquiry to foster a comprehensive educational experience.
- Collaborate with colleagues in the natural sciences to promote interdisciplinary learning opportunities.
- Participate in professional development activities to stay current with advances in the field of biology.

Qualifications

- A personal relationship with Jesus Christ and a commitment to Erskine's Christian mission.
- Master's degree required, PhD in Biology or a closely related field preferred.
- Proven record of excellence in teaching and a strong commitment to undergraduate education.
- Experience in academic research, evidenced by scholarly publications or conference presentations.
- Excellent communication, organizational, and interpersonal skills.
- Ability to inspire and motivate students both in and out of the classroom.

- Commitment to integrating faith and learning in the classroom.
